Nok Finds Success

Nok moved from Thailand to Lowell, Massachusetts, seven years ago. Like many immigrants, she faced challenges: learning English, finding work, and adjusting to a new culture. But Nok had a goal—she wanted to open her own Thai food business.

Nok worked long hours in a local restaurant. In the evenings, she attended English classes at the Lowell Adult Education Center. There, a teacher told her about a free program at the Merrimack Valley Small Business Center. Nok signed up and learned how to create a business plan, apply for permits, and manage finances.

Nok also began using the public library to study and attend workshops. With support from these community resources, Nok was able to save money and prepare her business plan.

Two years later, Nok opened a Thai food truck in downtown Lowell. She now uses time management tools she learned in class—daily planners, to-do lists, and phone reminders—to balance her work, family, and personal goals.
